

FEDERALS IN PANIC AS REBELS ADVANCE

HUERTA'S ARMY FACES DIS- ORGANIZATION ON EVE OF IM- PORTANT BATTLE AT OJINGA.

CRITICAL ENGAGEMENT

Dictator's Power Wavers in Balance As His Fugitive Forces on North- ern Border Threaten to Surrender.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Presidio, Tex., Dec. 30.—Fighting between Mexican federal and constitutionalists at Ojinaga was resumed this morning. The rebels advanced upon the federal trenches where the remainder of Huerta's army in northern Mexico had taken refuge after its disastrous defeat of last night.

Dazed and demoralized by their disheartening encounter with the rebel forces, eleven Mexican federal generals and the remainder of their army that had escaped defeat crouched today in the trenches at Ojinaga, Mexico, uncertain whether they should put up a feeble resistance against another attack or scatter in disorder in every direction.

U. S. Troops Active.
Meanwhile United States troops on this side of the river were scouting the border for any federalists who might have crossed during the night and to clear any danger from the crossing. The river as seemed imminent last night, when during a panic in the garrison at Ojinaga about 500 federalists leaped into the river.

The situation was regarded as critical both because it appeared to hold the fate of the federal army and because it threatened a general rush across the river of all the federal troops should the rebels close in.

Questions written on the face of every soldier now under siege in the small Mexican village about a mile from Presidio. Within the confines of the village were all that remained of the northern division of Huerta's army. About them on the hills are the advance guard of Gen. Ortega's rebel army and still further back were the rest of the rebels. All are moving under instructions from Gen. Villa to exterminate the federalists if possible.

Situation Is Critical.
After last night's rout in which they were so completely disorganized many crossed to the American side, or were shot dead for mutiny at their officers' feet.

On the Mexican side the federalists apparently were in no position to maintain a united fighting front.

Upon the ability of the generals to rally their soldiers around them when the Huerta army is to keep or lose its last remaining foothold in the northern part of Mexico. The result of the first attack by the rebels at Ojinaga today was a defeat. About 400 federalists were killed, more than a week from Chihuahua City, had reached La Mula Pass, a canon leading from the interior to Ojinaga. At the pass, about eighteen miles from Ojinaga, they opened fire and defeated the few federal outposts.

Th. 4,000 federalists hemmed in at Ojinaga had been in discord due to the withholding of their pay and to quarrels among the regulars and volunteers.

Rebel Advance Spreads Terror.
The news of the rebel approach had caused increasing anxiety, but when the firing was heard absolute terror prevailed.

About 500 federalists with their guns jumped into the river to seek safety on the American side. Of this number at least 400 were driven back before they got out of the water. Another hundred were captured by Major McNamee, commanding officer. These were disarmed, marched to the town of Presidio and then forced back to the Mexican side.

Some of the federalists who had been wounded were taken in charge by Dr. Burns, army surgeon. They reported that some of the federalists had been killed. None of the federal officers came across so far as was known.

About the time a scene of unimaginable confusion reigned among the federalists who still kept within the fortifications and trenches of Ojinaga. The soldiers flatly refused to fight. All army ranks and units were broken and the whole garrison was a mob.

The generals alone stood firm, and endeavoring with their poor support to present a gallant front. Generals Salazar and Orozco, commanders of the army, were said to have drawn their revolvers in a threat to shoot every soldier who refused to obey.

Summed up the federalists appeared to have scattered at the first puff of powder. Military men said it was more than bullets that disorganized the garrison.

A desultory fire opened by the rebels indicated that the rebel forces intended to push the fight right into the federal stronghold. The federal trenches, apparently without hope of repulsing the attacking force. Only a few shots came from the Huerta lines in the early stages of today's fighting.

As viewed from the American side the situation of the federalists seemed desperate as they had no ground for farther retreat except across the river unless they should try the hazardous alternative of a forced march into the state of Coahuila.

Gen. Ortega, commanding the constitutionalists, has received orders to show no mercy to the captured federalists and to summarily execute Generals Salazar, Orozco, Rojas, and Aguilar, commanding volunteers, if was said.

United States cavalry was patrolling the border again today watching for any federalists who might attempt to cross to the American side. On account of the situation of Ojinaga with reference to the American town, no firing across the border is feared.

The federalists sent messengers across the river this morning with messages for the war department at Mexico City.

It was reported that Ortega had been reinforced so that the attacking army outnumbered the defenders.

Federal Army in Flight.
The federal army of four thousand men at Ojinaga, opposite here, was put to flight last night by 4,200 constitutionalists sent by Gen. Villa from Chihuahua. In the darkness many of the federalists crossed the river to the American side, but all except the United States troops were killed.

The final rout was preceded by a three hours' battle begun after dark in which the rebels marching through the steep canons south of Ojinaga

WISH PERFECT MAN FOR HUMAN GARDEN

German Mittgart Society Has Novel Plan for Unbuilding Perfect Race in Regeneration.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, Dec. 30.—Is there an American millionaire with the beauty of an Apollo the intellect of a Socrates, the strength of a Samson or Jim Jeffries, the restless energy of a Roosevelt or Emperor William, and other necessary physical constitutional requirements, who want to help the race by becoming one of the founders of a new Garden of Eden? The "Mittgart Bund" of Germany is looking for such a man. As a reward he can be one of the first "Adams" in the new Eden and have 10 or more "Eves"—one at a time. Each union will be only a "trial marriage" lasting from three months to one year.

The Mittgart Society is looking for a place to locate its "human garden" where it can rear a race of children unsurpassed for beauty, strength, intellect and wisdom, who are to become the re-generating elements of the world. The society also is looking for a philanthropist to finance the "garden." Starting out originally with the intention of establishing its "breeding farm" in Germany for the "rearing of noble human beings" to first regenerate the German race, the society is now casting its eyes toward the new world for an ideal spot and an ideal financier. The old world doesn't want to be regenerated. The Mittgart Bund was organized some time ago by several Germans headed by Dr. Willibald Heintzel, of Breslau, who is all seriousness convinced the idea that places must be established whereby a course of selective, human beings may be bred and reared like fine horses, to furnish re-generating and renewing elements to the human race, is worthy of steady dedication and degeneration of the human race.

Official Statement.
El Paso, Dec. 30.—Army headquarters received the following communication from Presidio:

General. Fighting between the rebels and federalists has been in progress at Ojinaga and vicinity since sunset yesterday. One fight started at the village of San Francisco, three miles southeast of Ojinaga. Six miles further away another fight was in progress. At Matias, Gen. Rodriguez is stationed with 2,000 rebels. It is generally believed the rebels are closing in.

Communication with Presidio was by way of Maria, thence by a fence telephone wire sixty-seven miles to the border.

COMMITTEE DISCUSS COURT BETTERMENT

Legislative Committee Investigating Court System, Approve of Numer- ous Changes in Court Rule.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Dec. 30.—The committee created by the last legislature to investigate the system of courts in Wisconsin listened today to the circuit court judges and discussed methods of facilitating court work in the state after a long discussion in which nearly all the judges partici-pated. It was the consensus of opinion that the double trial system in probate matters should be abolished. Judge Reed of Wausau and others de-clared that they either an appeal di-rected from the county court to the supreme court or else when the issue is joined in the probate court the mat-ter should be immediately certified to the circuit court for trial.

There was considerable discussion over the possible abolition of the legis-lative-honored office of justice of the peace, but there seemed to be no unanimity on this subject. Judge Martin Lueck of Juneau at-tacked the present constitutional amend-ment aimed to allow the judges au-thority to reduce the number of cir-cuit courts. He said this was laying the ground work for overhauling the present circuit court system of the state.

Judge Rosa of Superior expressed his approval of the present court sys-tem.

Berlin, Dec. 30.—All Germany is to-day in the grip of violent storms accompanied in many places by heavy snowfall. Berlin itself is thickly cov-ered with snow, which is compara-tively rare here.

The waters of the Baltic and North seas have inundated the low-lying cities, interrupted railway and wire com-munication and cut off street traffic and out of work facilities. Several cities are without drinking water, electricity or gas.

JURY IN DEADLOCK OVER PRIEST'S FATE

Jury Unable to Decide Case Against Hans Schmidt After All Night Session.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Dec. 30.—The jury in the case of Hans Schmidt, the priest who killed Anna Aumiller, after hav-ing been out since 1:25 p. m., yester-day, had failed to reach a verdict up to 11 o'clock this morning. It was reported that the jurors were hopelessly deadlocked on the ques-tion of the prisoner's sanity. Schmidt spent a restless night.

Judge Foster had the jury brought into court about noon in response to a request from the foreman. One of the members was sick and wanted a doctor. The sick man quickly re-sponded to treatment and the jurors went back to their room after Judge Foster had urged them to agree. The foreman said the question which caused the difference among them was one of veracity regarding state-ments as to the mental condition of the defendant.

APPROVES LEGALITY LIMITATION CLAUSE

Three-Fourths Limitation Clause in Fire Insurance Policies Held Valid by Attorney General.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 30.—The three-fourths limitation clause in the fire insurance policy has been held valid by Attorney General Walter C. Owen in an opinion to Insurance Commissioner Herman L. Eken today. He holds that the three-fourths limitation clause may be used in connection with the Wisconsin standard policy. This clause is favored by most insur-ance companies, particularly upon risks with hazardous occupancies in isolated and unprotected localities.

Fire insurance companies do not favor country stores as they are usually re-moved from fire and police protection. Where the three-fourths limitation clause is used it is claimed by insur-ance companies that it eliminates inter-est of the owner of the property in the prevention of fire upon this risk.

Before submitting this question to the attorney general, Commissioner Eken had asked the opinion of the fire insurance companies admitted in the state of Wisconsin. The compa-nies were asked to submit copies of any forms of three-fourths limitation clause used by them and to state whether in their opinion the use of such clause was desirable. About one hundred companies re-sponded to this inquiry. Sixty-four companies stated that they were not using the three-fourths value clause in the state. Thirty-two companies admitted that they were using it al-though its use was not sanctioned by law. Sixty-six companies stated that the clause was desirable and twelve companies were opposed to its use on the ground that a person should be able to get all of the insurance he needs and that companies were morally obligat-ed to inspect and survey all property be-fore they insure it.

APPOINT RECEIVERS OF SIEGEL PROPERTY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston, Dec. 30.—Ancillary receivers were appointed in the United States district court today for prop-erties in which Henry Siegel, a New York Jew, is a large owner. On the petition of the Siegel stores corpora-tion, the court appointed receivers for William A. Marble and John S. Shep-ard, Jr., as receivers for Simpson-Crawford company and "The Four-teenth Street Store," New York; Henry Siegel company, Boston; and the Merchants Trust company, New York. At the same time Henry Melville was appointed receiver of Henry Siegel and company, bankers, New York. Each receiver furnished a bond of $50,000. Messrs. Marble and Shepard were ordered to furnish an-cillary receivers here today under bonds of $25,000 each.

The proceedings are described as friendly.

CLEVELAND HOUSEWIVES USING MARKET BASKETS TO MEET HIGH PRICES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cleveland, O., Dec. 30.—Carrying a market basket has become the fash-ion in Cleveland for rich and poor alike—so says John Kamp, market master, and he ought to know as the records of all municipal markets are kept by him. The fact that the ac-cording to Kamp, Clevelanders spend $400,000 a week at the city markets. At one market alone—the new West Side Market House—the total buyers in one week numbered 30,000.

The municipal markets are show-ing a wonderful increase in business, said Kamp, "which indicates that the Cleveland housewife is becoming more careful and is beginning to dis-pense with delivery which only adds to the cost of foodstuffs. She is more careful in her choice and she puts on her table and does not trust to the grocerwoman to pick her food-stuffs. And this is a big step toward lowering the cost of living."

CHICAGO TO CONSTRUCT LARGE SWIMMING BEACH ON NORTH SHORE FRONT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Dec. 30.—Chicago will have a swimming hole de luxe in operation when the mercury begins its first climb next summer. The beach commission of the city council today agreed upon plans for a bath-ing beach to cost $250,000 and with a frontage of 738 feet and built along the north shore, already popular with bathers.

Plans for construction of the new beach were made after the commis-sion visited Atlantic City and several other Eastern summer resorts. The main bath house will be of brick, stone and concrete. There will be a pavil-ion, a broad promenade, a kinder-garten for the youngsters and a nur-sery where mothers may leave their babies while the sun is in the lake.

The commission will recommend that persons not in bathing costume be barred from the sand and com-pelled to remain on the promenade.

A special provision for the exclu-sive use of women bathers and the remainder of the beach left open for mixed bathing. The commission pro-posed that the city make the nominal charge of 10 cents for adult bathers and five cents for children under fifteen years to make the beach self-sustaining.

PRESIDENT DEVOTES DAY TO PLAYING GOLF

FAVORS NEW SYSTEM GRANTING DIVORCES

Judge Turner of Milwaukee Outlines Some of Faults in Present Scheme at Judges' Meeting.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 30.—Probably 50 per cent of the divorces in Mil-waukee county might be avoided if a new system of granting divorces was de-vised. This statement was made by Judge W. J. Turner of Milwaukee last evening at the meeting of the circuit judges held here today. He believes that the legislature should pass a law creating the position of divorce law-yer to be appointed by the circuit judge and no divorce action be brought except by this man.

"The public is interested," said Judge Turner. "In one year 600 di-vorces have been granted in Mil-waukee county. In every case there is an average of three children, the man and his wife. Besides these 3,000 peo-ple the county often has to pay for the support of some of them. I think that there are a large percentage of divorces brought by lawyer's run-ners, who have brought on an evil as great as the ambulance chaser in personal injury cases. Then too, di-voiced women in a locality often urge women who have had a divorce to go to a lawyer and get a divorce."

"When the parties have come into court with their witnesses it is often difficult to secure an agreement. But if no divorce was brought except by the divorce lawyer, appointed by the court and drawing his salary from the state and county, I believe that a large number of the applications for divorce would be eliminated."

Judge Turner said he did not be-lieve that the same conditions pre-vailed in every county of the state. Last night the judges held a banquet for the divorce lawyers, appointed by the court and drawing his salary from the state and county. I believe that a large number of the applications for divorce would be eliminated."

QUEEN MOTHER DIES AT STOCKHOLM TODAY

Her Majesty an Invalid for Many Years, Under Doctor's Care.—For- tune to Younger Son.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Stockholm, Sweden, Dec. 30.—Queen Mother Sophia of Sweden, died here today in her 78th year. She had suf-fered for several days and suc-cumbed to an attack of inflammation of the lungs.

Her majesty had been practically an invalid for more than a quarter of a century. She was subject to melancholia, which necessitated a constant watch being kept on her by her medi-cal attendants. She took very little part in court functions, devoting her-self to religious and charitable work. She was a great sympathizer with the Salvation Army, whose operations in Scandinavia she followed with intense interest. She was also a strong ad-vocate of temperance.

The late queen mother was a prin-cess of Nassau, and was married at Wiesbaden to the late King Oscar, in June 1857. The royal couple cele-brated their golden wedding anni-versary in 1907, just six months be-fore King Oscar's death.

Her majesty leaves a large fortune, most of which it is understood will be inherited by her son, Oscar, who renounced his rights to the crown in order to marry Miss Elba Munk, his mother's maid of honor. This mar-riage was the cause of the only divo-rce which ever arose between King Oscar and Queen Sophia, the latter encouraging the match.

CROWNHART VOICES OPINION ON LABDR

Commissioner Hearing Eyes on Governor's Seat, Expresses Views on Industrial Safe- ty Laws.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Dec. 30.—Legislators should enact broad and compre-hensive industrial safety laws, but application of the general rule to con-ditions should be left to administra-tive commissions, was the opinion ex-pressed by Charles H. Crownhart, chairman of the Wisconsin industrial commission at the opening ses-sion here today of the American Asso-ciation for labor legislation and the American Political Science Asso-ciation.

After describing the good results of utility commissions whose orders have been sustained by the courts, Mr. Crownhart declared that the same principle was working well now in the field of labor legislation.

VATICAN EMPLOYEES THREATEN STRIKE

Gardeners and Museum Keepers De- mand More Pay or Abolition of Holidays—Pope Considers Matter.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rome, Dec. 30.—Pope Pius is today facing another threatened strike within the Vatican. This time it is the gardeners and the museum keep-ers. Their demands involve the rather unusual alternative of either a raise in pay or the abolition of hol-idays. The fact that the employees get 30 cents a day except on holidays when they draw nothing. As there are seventy-nine religious holidays in the year to say nothing of Sundays the employees insist they have real grounds for grievance. The fact that the gardeners and museum keepers get 30 cents a day except on holidays when they draw nothing. As there are seventy-nine religious holidays in the year to say nothing of Sundays the employees insist they have real grounds for grievance.

Recently one of the gardeners went mad and committed suicide by jump-ing off the Vatican Hall. The gar-deners and museum keepers insisted that he went mad trying to figure out how to make both ends meet on the 70-cent-a-day-holiday-pay proposition and petitioned the Pope accordingly. They told him they hoped he would take action to stop the fatal re-sult and hoped he'd see to it that an epidemic of suicides at the Vatican might not be rendered inevitable. They also asked him if he feared they did not have to go on holidays the same as other day. Up to the present time there has been no ac-tion in the Vatican but Pope Pius is known to be giving the matter ser-ious attention and consideration.

REFUSE INCOME TAX UNTIL GIVEN BALLOT

Dr. Anna Shaw Still Maintains Stand With Suffragists to Refuse Tax, to Refuse Fine and to Strike —Government Rulings.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Dec. 30.—Militancy is not involved in the appeal issued by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association to suffragists to refuse to pay in-come taxes until they are given the right to vote. Dr. Shaw asserted last night that she advocated only a pas-sive resistance to the government agents.

Dr. Shaw declared that she would refuse to make returns to her tax as-sessor and if fined by a court would refuse to pay the fine. If sent to jail she will not start a hunger strike, she said.

Washington, Dec. 30.—"Resistance" on the part of the women of the coun-try to the federal income tax law de-spite the fact that the government in-tention to impose fines of $1,000 for each failure to report incomes will re-fuse the encouragement of the suf-fragist congressional union it is an-nounced in a statement issued by the organization headquarters here.

Resistance to the law, it is declared, would be thoroughly justified from a moral standpoint.

The statement coming as it does upon the heels of the suggestion of the organization headquarters here by the Rev. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, that the unen-franchised women of the country de-cline to aid the government in collect-ing taxes upon their incomes, has caused a mild sensation today in congressional treasury and suffrage circles. The statement issued by the congressional union declares that it does not plan to organize a widespread resistance to the income tax but adds:

"If any society or individual, how-ever, should refuse to pay income tax or to give information as to amount of income, the congressional union would have every sympathy with such action."

Funds for Prosecution.
Washington, Dec. 30.—Suffrage leaders waging a campaign against payments of the income tax by wom-en may find their problem solved by the law in the opinion of treasury officials. There is a provision which appropriates $500,000 for collecting the tax and states that the commis-sioners may make such use of the fund as they deem necessary for in-formation, detection and bringing to trial and punishment persons guilty of violating the provisions of this section or committing any of the same."

Heroes of Harvard and Yale Gridiron Battles Leave Banquet to Help Fire Department.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Dressed in even-ing clothes, Yale and Harvard vet-erans of the gridiron and diamond last night waded fire hoses and helped in fighting a fire across an alley from the University Club. The athletes were attending a banquet on the eighth floor when the fire broke out in the eleventh floor of an adjoining building.

Forgetting their boasts to one of their number, who is to be married soon, the men rushed to the eleventh floor of the club building and from a fire escape fought the blaze across a ten foot alley. They had a line of hose pouring water on the flames be-fore fire department arrived. Soon while shirt fronts were pulpy with smoke and water the collegians con-tinued their work in relays until the fire was out. The fire caused only small damage. In the fire fight-ing crew were Henry Hobbs, all-American Yale tackle for two years; C. G. Osborne, Harvard football cap-tain; W. H. Stillwell, Yale halfback; Stanley Kiech, Princeton tennis star; Howard Scott, Yale basketball and all-American short stop for three years; Edvard Cuddeby, Jr., one of the party, was painfully cut over the right eye by a splinter of glass which he was handling a hose on the fire escape.

Two city firemen were injured by falling glass. Thousands of specta-tors watched the fire fighting from the streets.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO CHECK VIOLENCE

PUBLIC GATHERINGS AT CALU- MET ARE GUARDED TO PRE- VENT POSSIBLE DIS- TURBANCES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Calumet, Mich., Dec. 30.—Under-surface mutterings rather than actual developments have been the cause of some strike situation in the copper mining district of Michigan. Who is the radical actor by union members in-flamed by rumors that enemies of the organization were responsible for the "Hallam hall disaster," have caused some excitement. Precau-tions to be taken, but so far no con-ferences have been held where no good foundations for such terror.

Guard Holiday Gatherings.
As a result of the feeling, however, the usual holiday gatherings at the churches and halls have been closely guarded by deputy sheriffs. Childra of members of the Citizens' Alliance who attended entertainments under the leadership of union men, who cost their lot with that organization, did so with armed officers stationed at approach to the buildings.

The coroner's inquest into the Christmas Eve disaster was held this morning. One woman swore she heard two shots fired in the height of the panic, but her bearing was more acute than that of others who told of the earlier part of the night. A dull roar of the rushing feet, punctuated by overturning chairs and screams of women and children.

Delay in Moyer Case.
O. J. Moyer, chief of counsel for the Western Federation of Miners, again attended the inquest, thus mak-ing it appear that the attempt to bring the Moyer case before the Houghton county grand jury will not be undertaken soon as was ex-pected. The grand jury resumed its session in Houghton, giving no in-formation as to what subjects it in-tended to take up.

The presence of James McNaugh-ton, general manager of the Calumet and Hecla mines, in Chicago today, merely marks a stage in his vacation trip to Boston, according to infor-mation given out from his office here.

A RAILROAD LIKE RUBBER

So Flexible That It Can Be Laid on the Ground as Desired.

The portable railway is invaluable in the development of the industries, but at present these are usually in the form of sections, which are laid on the ground on ties and secured at the ends with suitable curves provided here and there. The newest thing in this line is a portable and adjustable track, which is so flexible that it has only to be laid on the ground in the desired location and it is ready for use. Curves of any shape or combination may be established.

RAILROAD TRACKS WITH THE FLEXIBILITY OF RUBBER.

Used wherever they may be wanted, and there is no holding of way account, as the sections may be made much longer than the straight sections now available. The track is composed of a number of interlocking sections, fitted together with a little play at each joint, and the track may be laid in a straight line or curved at will by simply bending the construction as wanted.

MODIFICATION MADE BY GOVERNMENT ON PARCEL POST RULES

Various Zones to be Affected by Changes Made—New Limit of 50 Pounds is Made in First and Second Zones.

By the new changes in the parcel post system, to take effect on January 1st, 1914, the government has granted additional benefits to the individual.

The changes should be carefully noted, for some of them are radical, especially the weight differences. The weight limits and rates are of importance to all patrons, and everyone should know them.

There has been no change made with respect to the limit of size of fourth-class mail. Parcels of such nature greater in size than 72 inches in length and girth combined, shall not be accepted for mailing. Following are the changes in weight limit and postage rates for fourth-class matter.

On and after January 1, 1914, the limit of weight of parcels of fourth-class mail for delivery within the first and second zones, shall be increased from 20 to 50 pounds and in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth zones from 11 to 20 pounds.

This change in the first and second zones, will be of great benefit to local people, as they can send a package as heavy as 50 pounds, as for example, Wausau, Wis.; as far west as Cedar Rapids, Iowa; as far east as Grand Rapids, Michigan; and as far south as Bloomington, Ill., or within a short radius of the city.

The rate of postage on parcels exceeding 4 ounces in weight in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth zones shall be as follows:

First zone—7 cents for the first pound and 6 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

Second zone—8 cents for the first pound and 6 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

Third zone—9 cents for the first pound and 6 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

Fourth zone—10 cents for the first pound and 6 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

Fifth zone—11 cents for the first pound and 6 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

Sixth zone—12 cents for the first pound and 6 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

Parcels weighing 4 ounces or less are mailable at the rate of 1 cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce, regardless of distance. Parcels weighing more than 4 ounces will, on and after January 1, 1914, be mailable at the following pound rates in the first and second zones, a fraction of a pound being considered a full pound.

DR. BEATON TENDERED FAREWELL RECEPTION

Members of the Congregational Church and Their Friends Say Good-bye to Departing Minister.

The farewell reception tendered to Dr. and Mrs. Beaton last evening was largely attended, not only by his own church people, but by friends from all parts of the city. Mrs. Fred Sutherland presided, and after a number of selections by the orchestra, Mayor Fathers spoke of the doctor's work and influence as a citizen, and wished him God-speed, on behalf of the city.

J. A. Craig represented the church in a tribute of appreciation and told of new revelations of truth that had come to him through the ministry of the retiring pastor.

Rev. Hazen of the Baptist church spoke for the ministers, and emphasized the inspiration which close fellowship had developed and the brotherly feeling which existed because of the broad and liberal policy pursued by Dr. Beaton.

Professor H. C. Buell, in behalf of the young people, had something to say for the pastor, as a Christian educator, complimenting the doctor highly on his work along this line.

A. E. Matheson presented Mrs. Beaton with a cluster of roses, and in a happy vein, suggested the many graces of character which had won for her a warm place in the hearts of the people.

Professor Lowth produced a purse of gold as a substantial reminder of love and regard from many friends.

Dr. Beaton responded to the call for a word of farewell, and his audience was thoroughly impressed with the fact that he spoke from a heart inspired by love and sympathy. He emphasized the "message" as greater than the man and recognized human limitations.

Many people outside the Congregational church know Dr. Beaton, as a man, because he was a citizen as well as a pastor. He was broader than a creed, and always interested in civic righteousness and public welfare. He will be missed as a citizen. The doctor went to Cedar Rapids this morning, and will go from there to the coast. Mrs. Beaton will follow a little later.

WINNING BROTHERS TO AID JOLLIFICATION AT ELKS' CARNIVAL

Will Help Watch the Old Year Out at Elks' Carnival Wednesday Evening After Their Regular Performance.

Winning Brothers have added their forces to the various entertainments at the Elks' Carnival, which opens tonight at the Auditorium, and will give an added entertainment there Wednesday evening after their regular theatrical performance at the Myers Theatre. Frank Winnings will give a musical specialty assisted by his beauty chorus, the Le Grande trio will sing and dance and the Misses Grand and Ford will do some funny tango dancing.

All is in readiness for the formal opening this evening and the cages of the trained wild animals have been put in place, the strong man has tested the rock that is he smashed on his chest, the tattooed man has harnessed up his tattoos, the boxers are in the pink of condition. The magician has practiced until he can draw checks out of the air and applause out of a stone. The fortune tellers have looked up all sorts of scandal to tell their victims and the barkers have practiced their side splitting speeches until they know them by heart.

It has been a strenuous time for General Manager J. C. Nichols and Chairman Fred Baker of the committee, but they smile in anticipation of the good time in store for all visitors at their big show. Tomorrow evening special plans are being made for the midnight carnival of fun in watching the old year out and the new year in. It is going to be some time from start to finish and with the Winning Brothers and their company present it is safe to say it will long be remembered in Janesville.

All members of the performing staff, doorkeepers, animal tenders, barkers and ring performers are requested to be present at the Auditorium at seven fifteen sharp tonight, as the doors open at seven-thirty. On Wednesday, at twelve noon, there will be a grand parade of the carnival company with full band music, and every member of the Elks is ordered to be in line of march on penalty of a heavy fine to be imposed by Frank Hayes, one of the producing directors.

HUGE STATUE FOR PANAMA EXPOSITION

One of the latest pieces of decorative statuary for the Panama-Pacific exposition to have its enlargement from the sculptor's model completed is the figure representing "an Arab sheik, which is one of a group entitled "Nations of the East," which will surmount the arch of the Rising Sun in the court of the Sun and Stars.

The Thieving Magpie.
A few weeks ago a large tree in England in which several magpies had nested for years was blown down during a gale, and in a hollow which was unsuspected was found over $300 worth of articles stolen from various houses. The principal thing was a diamond ring worth $200. The largest article was a silver-backed hairbrush.

WELSH A CONTENDER FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Battle of Ritchie and Welsh, British Pug, Should Battle to Decide Lightweight Honors.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Dec. 30.—There isn't any lightweight champion of the world according to Tom Andrews, who matched Puckey McFarland and Jack Britton here recently, and who is probably dead among the college of "first rate" fight scribes in the United States.

"Willie Ritchie is not the lightweight champion of the world according to my way of thinking," said Andrews today. "He is champion of America because he won from Al Wolcott on a technicality in the sixteenth round at Duluth, Cal. But Freddy Welsh is champion of Great Britain by virtue of his defeat of Matt Wells two weeks before Ritchie beat Wolcott. Welsh is also champion of Australia because he defeated Champion Hughie McEgahan in England.

"Thus Welsh has two crowns against Ritchie's one."

"Also Welsh has a decision over Ritchie in a twenty-round bout at Los Angeles, although it must be conceded that Ritchie took the fight on one day's notice and could not prepare for a hard battle. Welsh's victory, however, was not by a very great margin."

"Ritchie's long vacation while on his theatrical tour caused much talk, and he was being 'panned' especially after the trouble over his match with Welsh in Vancouver, which was advertised for the world's title."

"Willie silenced this criticism by his wonderful fight against Leach Cross. He proved he is not a champion by choice but the real lightweight boss."

Andrews said Ritchie defeated Cross at his own game—slugging. He added that the critics should accept Willie as a bona fide lightweight champion of this country as a result of the fight and that the result probably would have been the same had the boys gone over the twenty round route on the coast.

"However," Andrews continued, "Ritchie must beat Welsh to be a real world's champion. He was to fight Murphy for the title but I believe there are three boys in the country who can give him a better fight than Murphy over twenty rounds. They are Jim Duffy, of Buffalo; Pat Brown of Hibbing, Minn., and Sam Robideau, the Philadelphia sailor. There are others in the division, including Charlie White, Leach Cross, Frankie Russell and Sapper O'Neil of England, and Willie Ritchie will have a tough time before he clears away that field and has clear sailing."

Henry S. Graves.

Henry S. Graves, chief of the U. S. forest service, recently declared that the policy of the nation, so far as forests are concerned, has been definitely settled along the lines laid down by Gifford Pinchot.

"The aim of the present administration," said Mr. Graves, "is not to overturn, but to take every possible step to increase efficiency of the forest service, to adjust difficulties and to advance as fast as possible the purposes for which the national forests were established."

CONGRESS TOO TAME
FOR THIS YOUNG MAN

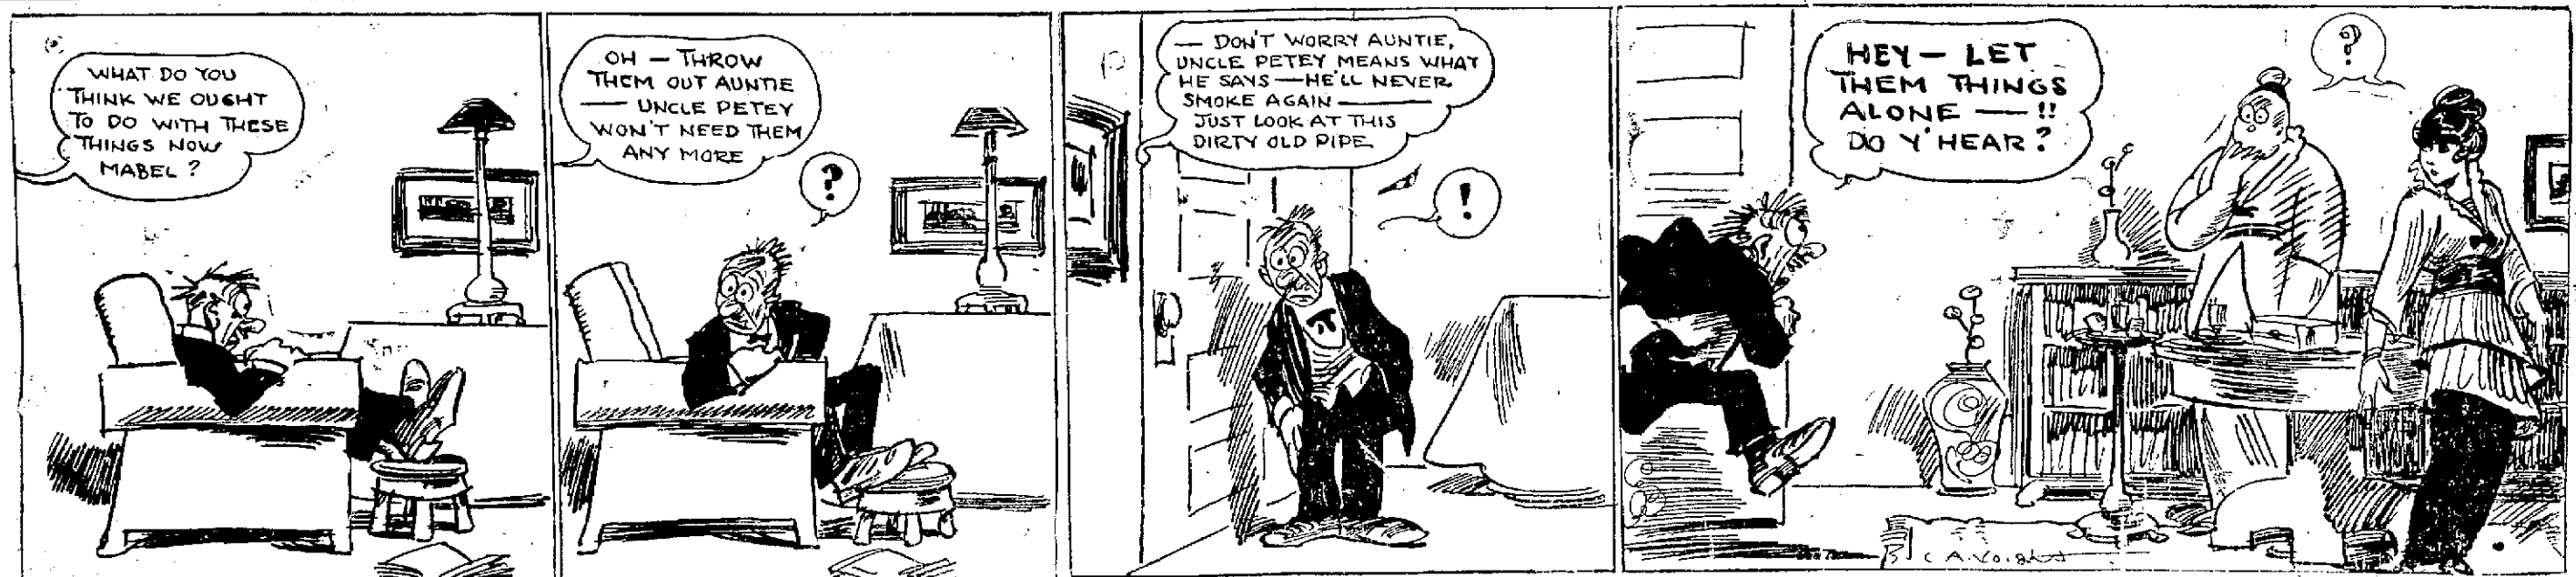

Sanford Kirkpatrick, the new congressman from Iowa's sixth district, says congress is too tame for a young man of action like him. He's only seventy-two. At one time in his life he was a revenue officer in the South, in fact he served twenty-seven years in the internal revenue service, and he liked that work very much. Every now and then he exchanged shots with moonshiners and to this day carries several pieces of lead in his anatomy as mementoes of these occasions. During the Civil war he served in the Union army.

Old Bob Fitzsimmons was present at a white hope battle at New York the other day. After watching a round or two Bob got up in disgust to go and said that he felt it his duty to challenge all the present heavyweights. Fitz's well-known wallop would probably lay cold a few of them cold at that.

If Leach Cross isn't able to lick Bud Anderson, decisively on New Year's day he may as well prepare to select an easy chair in the Down-and-Out club. A defeat at the hands of Anderson would put the Boy of the Bowery in the has-been class for fair and his fight career from that point on would be nil. Cross, of course is well aware of this and is determined to lick Anderson in such a way as to restore his previous fame. There is no reason why Cross should not get away with the fight with little effort. The general opinion seems to be that Leach will win easily and that there are few chances that he will have to take up dentistry for steady employment. Cross has always been up and down in his fortune, anyway, in one fight he will show up like a champ and in the following one like a sub. According to that line of hope he is due for a clean victory over Anderson. He has been licked bad twice of late and this is his turn for a win.

Conflicting rumors as to Joe Tinker's affair with the doorkeeper of Chicago newspaper throw a veil of obscurity over the whole business. The first report had it that the office boy not recognizing Joe told him he couldn't enter and when Tinker decried the office boy just beat him up and carried on dreadfully with him. Then another one had it that it was a big burly night watchman that had dared to coerce Joe, as they say in Newcastles, and after a brick battle was able to push the well-known ex-manager down stairs. The third rumor, however, and the one that seems most reasonable if you've ever seen Joe with his mitts up, has it that a big watchman and three or four friends made an effort to restrain Tinker, much to the latter's annoyance, who thrashed one and all of them soundly. This column prefers to regard the last of these as the authentic one. It sounds more as if Tinker told it and he ought to know.

Louis Heilbrunner, president of the Central league, says the time is coming when all of the minor leagues will be made up of just six teams. The Central league had but six clubs last year and they managed to break even in spite of the fact that every one of the towns was visited with a flood or hurricane. Minor leagues, says Heilbrunner, will learn that there is no sense in loading themselves down with a couple of dead towns as most of them do, when they can get along very well with six. There is scarcely a minor league that could be mentioned, says Louis, that hasn't at least two dead towns on its circuit. And they stick to eight merely because it has always been so and they hesitate to give up the idea. Heilbrunner is convinced that six towns are plenty for a minor organization and that all of them prosper better than when there are eight. And as Louis Heilbrunner is a smart little guy, his words merit deliberation.

It is related of Muggsy McGraw that one day last summer when the Giants were playing Philadelphia, Muggsy somehow managed to peeve or anger Eddie Brennan, Philadelphia twirler. Brennan, exasperated beyond endurance, struck Muggsy twice in the face, causing contusions. Eddie Rixey, Philadelphia pitcher and pal of Brennan's, saw the thing take place. Rixey was hanging around the Giant club house watching McGraw having his face reassembled when he overheard the Giant leader say: "Well, he'd never do it if he hadn't hit me from behind." Convinced with Muggsy's story, Rixey could hear much to the chagrin of Muggsy, that Brennan must have queer arms indeed to be able to strike those blows from behind.

ASPIRANTS ANXIOUS TO PRACTICE AGAIN

AMATEURS DEFEATED AFTER HARD GAME

High School Basketball Hopes Want to Practice This Week—Team May Play Beloit Yet.

There is considerable uneasiness among the members of the local high school basketball squad in the sense that they feel that they might as well be using the gymnasium this week in getting in extra practice before the season starts. Captain Hemming who has been in Chicago spending a few days, is home again, and is anxious to get his men centered together early this week to talk business and to play in some extra drill. There is no doubt but what the entire squad of twenty men could stand a little vacation practice, at which time many break training, and then are unfit to start the season fit.

If the squad, as a whole, can be gathered together within the next twenty-four hours, the remainder of the week will be taken up in signal work, regular practices and the technique of the game more thoroughly explained.

Both Rau and Stickney have taken on a little weight since school opened in September. Stickney is able to tip the beam at or near the 135 mark, while Rau will touch 165 with ease. If Stickney is selected on the regular five, as he probably will be, if he keeps his present stride up, he will bring the weight average down considerably. That should make little difference as long as he is there with the speed and accuracy at caging goals.

Captain Hemming, Dalton, Atwood and Stewart are in line for the team, though they suffer for want of wind yet. Every man is anxious to make good on January the ninth, as on that night the first game of the season will be played with the Alumni at the local gym. Coach Curtis will give every man a chance, and the five best men will compose the first team, the next three picked to represent the substitute material for their superiors. The Beloit game may yet be played, and only one game at that. It is rumored that the game has been settled in Coach Wickham's mind. Although the local mentor knows nothing about the matter, several Beloit players attended last Saturday, while visiting this city, that as far as they knew the game was already scheduled to be played at the local gymnasium.

Use of Peanut Oil Spreading. Over 50,000 tons of peanuts are brought to Bordeaux annually from Africa, and the value of the oil made from them is $2,000,000. Many French families prefer it for table use to olive oil, and it is much cheaper, too, the price being 55 to 52 cents a gallon, according to quality.

CAR BLAZES; WIFE FAINTS; AUTO LOST

Frank Schulte.

Frank Schulte, the Chicago Cubs' 1911 Chalmers trophy winner, is mourning the loss of the automobile emblematic of that title. It was destroyed by fire a few days ago near Schulte's fruit ranch in Georgia. Schulte and his wife were returning from town to their ranch in the evening. The car balked. Frank opened the hood and lighted a match to see what was the matter. There was a flash. The machine caught fire. Mrs. Schulte fainted. While Schulte was bringing her back to life the car burned up.

Plants Natural Barometers. The common chickweed opens its blossoms only when the sun is shining and counts on only the bright hours. When it closes its blossoms rain invariably follows. The sea purslane has the same habit. It never opens in cloudy weather and closes when the sun is low, about to sink. The scarlet pimpernel never exposes its flowers to a shower.

WILL LIGHT FIERY CROSS IN ENGLAND, SCOTLAND AND WALES, SAYS JIM LARKIN

James Larkin, speaking in England (top), and immediately after his release from prison, carried shoulder-high.

James Larkin, or "Jim" Larkin, as he is called by his hosts of followers, is the guiding spirit in the great transport workers' strike, which for weeks has been going on in Dublin, Ireland. Last fall he was given a seven months' term in prison on a charge of sedition and inciting to riot. Later he was released, and he is now carrying on what he calls a "fiery cross" campaign in England, Scotland and Wales.

SCIENCE NOTES

Aerial propellers have been put to the test in England and found to be an economical means of propulsion where speed is not a consideration. A constant thrust of about 200 pounds can be obtained from a 16-horsepower motor, and is sufficient to move at the rate of four miles an hour, barges loaded up to 20 or 30 tons. The efficiency of such a propelling plant has been calculated to be 16.7 per cent.

The increasing use of automobiles in Europe is leading to the construction of special routes reserved exclusively for this class of traffic. One of the first of these to be built in Germany of extensive length is to run between Düsseldorf and Dortmund, and it will have about 50 feet width throughout the whole length, according to the present project. As to the part of the route which traverses Westphalia the several municipalities are now discussing the plans.

By the introduction of automobiles, the French army officials have been enabled to serve fresh meat to the soldiers instead of the canned meat which has been hitherto issued to them in the form of rations. At the last maneuvers, 25 miles away and a large number of power buses were assembled for the occasion and utilized as delivery wagons. All openings of the buses were covered with screens and the cattle killed one day were hung in the wagons and during the next day were delivered to the different military organizations. The innovation was a great success in every particular.

The discovery of the art of waterproofing was the result of an accident. It was in 1800 that Thomas Ponsley Willey of Bedford, England, took out the first patent for the process known as "crave-mette."

He got the idea from an accident in a Yorkshire dye-house. Certain goods had been wrongly dyed and the workmen were directed to wash out the surplus logwood color with soap. After the goods had been dried the improvement was so marked that the dyer ordered a repetition of the alum washing. The cloth was sent to the washing-machine, but the workmen found that they could not wet it. It passed through the water and came out dry. It was the discovery made that cloth could be waterproof and yet remain porous.

The pantograph is an implement made use of in draughting rooms principally, by which it is possible to produce an enlarged reduced drawing from another its construction is exceedingly simple and is a tool which is very familiar to a great number of persons. The principle of this device has been recently combined with the oxy-acetylene jet for cutting metal following a prescribed pattern. With the tracing point located at some distance from the reproducing point, the applicability of the apparatus to the manipulation of the oxy-acetylene jet is evident. The jet is attached to the reproducing point, and carefully adjusted at the proper height above the surface of the metal to be cut, and when the heat is started, the movement of the tracing point around the desired path on an adjacent surface, cause the metal to be cut in accordance with any prearranged plan.

Salt's Value as Medicine.
As a medicine, salt has a wide range of possibilities. A weak solution of hot salt water used frequently as a gargle is one of the best remedies known for sore throat in its incipient stage. The gargles must not be too strong, or it will act as an irritant and thus defeat the end in view.

Not So Bad as Expected.
Many things seem greater by imagination than they are in effect. I have passed a good part of my age in a perfect and entire health. I say not only entire but sprightly and wanton. This state is so full of verdure, jollity and vigor, made the consideration of sickness so horrible to me, that when I came to experience it I found the attacks faint and easy, in comparison of what I had feared.—Montaigne.

BRIDEGROOMS HURRY TO AVOID NEW LAW

Unusual Rush of Business in Marriage License Line at County Clerk's Office—Expect Many Applications Tomorrow.

Prospective bridegrooms in Rock county threaten to swamp the county clerk's office tomorrow in their anxiety to secure marriage licenses before the new eugenics law requiring a physician's certificate shall go into effect. It is probable that seventy-five per cent of the marriages performed during the month of January will be authorized by licenses taken out either today or tomorrow, the last day of grace under the old law.

At three o'clock this afternoon the number of licenses issued during 1913 had reached the 460 mark, at least eighty more than the record-breaking year of 1912. The total up to 475 before Wednesday night, declared County Clerk Lee, "judging by the number of licenses we have issued this week. The high cost of getting married and the better worth considering in 1914, and your couples contemplating matrimony in the near future will probably take out their licenses in 1913 if possible." It is not probable that any additional clerks will be employed in Mr. Lee's office for Wednesday.

Licenses have been issued to the following: Haskell W. Horr and Cecil B. McGilvary, both of Beloit; Almar M. Harstad and Ida M. Olson, both of the town of Beloit; Edward H. Murphy and Agnes T. Brown, both of Janesville; Bernard A. Wilnitz of the town of La Prairie and Mary Reissnauer of Colton, Washington; Frank Anastasia of Freeport, Illinois, and Grace Casey of Beloit; De Forest L. Van Camp and Lottie A. Bach, both of Beloit; Frank E. Swan and Grace P. Lawrence, both of Janesville.

MAYOR TO INSPECT LIGHTING SYSTEMS

Fathers Will Investigate Street Lighting Plans Used at Baraboo, Wis., and Champaign, Ill.

Mayor James A. Fathers will leave tonight or tomorrow for Baraboo, Wis., where he will inspect the street lighting system which is employed there and return to this city to investigate the system at Champaign, Ill., a city about the size of Janesville.

"We are working at a plan by which our city may be better lighted," said Mayor Fathers today. "I am in favor of smaller candle-power lamps at shorter distances throughout the business and residence districts, and the city administration hopes that the provisions may be amended to allow for better lighting facilities. The large arc lights now in use have been found unsatisfactory. Although they give abundant light, they are at a distance, the darkness and shadow outside of their range is intensified. At present there are over two hundred lamps of the style in operation with a number of the smaller lights of 100 candle power.

The members of the city council are inclined favorably toward the installation of a large number of 100 candle-power lamps, placing them as close as very block and nearer than if conditions warrant. They are confident that the city will be more thoroughly lighted and that results would be more satisfactory. Mayor Fathers favors the over-head lamp hung over the street rather than the lamp attached to a post at the side of the street.

The city of Janesville is spending a large amount of money annually in lighting, amounting to nearly $1 per capita. The councilmen feel sure that a better lighted city can be obtained by an improved system. Councilman Cummings is figuring on the number of new lamps of smaller candle-power which could be installed at the same expense as the present system. Some definite action in the matter is contemplated within a short time.

HOLD EDGERTON MAN ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Federal Officers Charge Albert C. Hauge With Selling Land Tracts Which He Did Not Own.

The arrest at Edgerton last Saturday of Albert C. Hauge, who will be taken to Milwaukee from Madison today by federal officers, is expected to clear up an extensive land swindle scheme that was operated in 1910 out of Milwaukee, the principal in which were indicted by the federal grand jury eighteen months ago.

Hauge is charged technically with using the mails for fraudulent purposes. The federal authorities expect to be able to show that he was the father of a swindling enterprise that duped people throughout Wisconsin and in upper Michigan, who were interested in the attractive proposition that were sent to them through the mails.

Operations Were Extensive.

Hauge and his associates endeavored to find purchasers for lands that he did not own and that he did not deliver. It is alleged. The properties were said to be located in Wisconsin and other states, extending even as far as Florida. The operations of the combination were brought to the attention of the federal authorities and the arrest of Hauge illustrates the persistence with which the government runs down violators of the statutes.

Hauge succeeded in getting away before he could be apprehended. Chief Postoffice Inspector Ralph Bird learned that there was a likelihood that he would try to spend Christmas holidays with his family at Edgerton. He enlisted the co-operation of the marshal's office in the western district and Saturday Deputy Marshal McAssey made an arrest, taking him prisoner to Madison.

Hauge is arrested.

Inspector Bird of Milwaukee went to Madison yesterday in connection with the case. He will return this morning via the Hauge train.

Inspector Bird, when questioned over the long distance telephone, declined to give the names of Hauge's associates, claiming that it would not be advisable from the government's viewpoint at this stage of the proceedings. The prisoner will be arraigned today before Judge P. A. Hingle in the United States court in Milwaukee.

Ceylon Bullock Carts Passing.
Owing to heavy mortality among the bullocks used for transporting plantation products in Ceylon, due to rinderpest and foot-and-mouth disease, a revolution seems to be impending in this island, in the substitution of motor lorries for the picturesque but slow and cumbersome bullock carts which for centuries have been the chief means of conveying goods in Ceylon.

Still a Belief in Sorcery.
Sorcery now and then figures in twentieth century life. The Pils civil court has just dismissed a suit brought against Prof. Raymond and Dr. Menard, two well-known physicians, by a coachman, who charged them with sorcery. The coachman claimed $5,000 damages because the physicians had enchanted him and disorganized his nervous system. The court ordered the coachman to pay the costs.

AGREES TO CONFORM TO COURT'S RULING

Vincent Carter Returns His Son to Janesville Giving Him Into the Custody of Mrs. Walter Grove.

Attorneys who have been interested in the case of Vincent Carter, who was on trial recently in municipal court charged with interfering with an order of the court in spiriting away his child, who was temporarily under the care of the court, have reached a settlement in the matter.

The boy, who was taken to Danville, Illinois, last fall to live with his grandparents, has been returned to this city and has been given into the care of Mrs. Mary Grove, 326 Cherry street, in conformance with the official order made by Judge Maxfield in the case.

Mr. Carter and Alva Hemmings, who was also an interested party in the affair, went to Danville last week and upon presenting a certified copy of the proceedings in the local municipal court, the adoption of the child, Alva Carter, was annulled by the Illinois court and the child was brought to Janesville, where he was given into the keeping of Mrs. Grove.

In the recent case in which Vincent Carter was tried for violating the court order, the jury disagreed and a new trial would not have been reached. As matters stand at present it is probable that the state will move for a dismissal of the case when it is called on Jan. 8.

Physical Director Yordy is especially anxious that all members that expect to enroll in the gym classes, to come to the organizing periods so as an early start can be made, insuring success to future work.

Owing to the heavy schedule of classes and the large increase in members this year, and that the classes will have three nights a week at the gymnasium, it has been found necessary to re-organize the schedule of the different branches of work. The A class will be made up from boys aged eight to twelve years and the B-juniors from twelve to fifteen years inclusive. The high school class will be composed entirely of high school students. The "employed" boys' class is to be made up from members under eighteen years of age who are employed regularly during the daytime and for high school students who work after school hours. The business men will have two separate classes, which will start immediately. One section will be the regular gymnasium work, which will meet twice a week. The other class will be for the purpose of volleyball, indoor baseball and other recreations which the members wish to play. The schedule of the classes is as follows. SANTA CLAUS MAKES LAST TRIP OF YEAR

Two Hundred and Twenty-Five Children Entertained at Salvation Army Last Night.

Two hundred and twenty-five children enjoyed the Christmas tree festivities held last night at the barracks of the Salvation Army on North Main street. On Christmas the local corps gave out over fifty baskets of food and cheer for the poor of the city and the entertainment last evening was to give the children a true trip of Santa Claus whose sleigh was loaded with a immense tree and toys and goodies that delighted the hearts of those whom Kris Kringle sometimes overlooks.

The funds were defrayed by subscriptions and from the kettles that were kept "boiling" on the street corners. The entertainment was held from the hours of seven-thirty until after ten. After toys, useful gifts, fruit, candy and nuts had been given to the youngsters, a program consisting of recitation and music was given. The work of charity at the Salvation Army of this city during the year has been most beneficial to the poor of the city.

BEET GROWERS WILL NOT ACCEPT PRICE

Farmers at Racine and Kenosha do Not Think Money Offered is Sufficient.

According to dispatches from Racine and Kenosha county farmers will refuse to produce sugar beets this year.

This is the decision of the Racine and Kenosha County Beet Growers' association. It is claimed the refineries are willing to pay only $4.50 per ton this year. The farmers received $5.50 last year and declare that unless the refineries agree to pay the same price this season no beets will be raised. This the company's representatives refuse to do. The association, numbering nearly 1,000 farmers of the two counties, is a unit against producing beets this year. Companies claim the tariff cut is the cause of the reduction.

The inter-county association elected officers as follows: A. J. Piper, Racine, president; E. L. Lamberton, Kenosha, vice president; E. Herzog, Somers, Kenosha county, secretary-treasurer. The officers of the association constitute a committee to negotiate with the sugar refineries.

ELECTROCUTTING MOSQUITOES

Lured by a Light Into Mesh of Electrically Charged Wires.

There is an old joke to the effect that one way to get rid of flies is to catch the flies and hold them down upon a brick while you hit them in the head with a hammer. It now develops that this is not so much of a joke as it seems, for two inventors of Illinois have promulgated the proposition that the way to get rid of mosquitoes is to catch the mosquitoes and kill them. They do not propose to follow the hammer and brick method, however, but their scheme contemplates luring the mosquito, by means of a light enclosed in a box, into the meshes of electrically charged wire threads. The box is open on one end and the lamp is placed inside. The light attracts the Jersey gallinule and as he flies toward it he comes in contact with an ingeniously arranged network of tiny wires. The wires are so taut that the insect must come in contact with at least two of them and in so doing the deadly current is sent through the body of the insect. To further insure the demise of the latter a saucer of coal oil is provided to receive his body as it falls after being shocked. It does not require any great amount of current to kill a mosquito and this is provided by a few batteries.

SHIPWRECKED MARINERS REACH FRISCO
WITH THRILLING STORY OF THE SEA

Captain Nels P. Benson, Steve Drinkwater and Alex Simoneau, members of the crew of the ill-fated El Dorado, have just reached San Francisco on a rescue ship. The El Dorado foundered in mid-ocean and fourteen sailors after a 1,000-mile voyage in a little sailboat landed on an island in the Pacific. Eleven of them married dusky natives; the other three in the sailboat journeyed 2,500 miles to the island of Papeete, where they were picked up by a Japanese ocean liner.

DUBLIN

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawish."

DUBLIN, which contains more Irish than any city in the world except New York, is the capital of Ireland and is situated on the Irish sea, 100 miles longways and 150 miles up and down from England by boat.

Dublin is so old that only half of its history can be believed. As early as the third century it is said to have been fighting with its neighbors, and it has kept up this custom with great earnestness and fidelity. When there has been no enemy to fight, Dublin has always divided into two factions and fought itself. This has been very wearing on the population so that in spite of its age and importance, Dublin only has about 300,000 people, most of whom live in one-room tenements and take boarders.

Dublin has a beautiful park, as large as Fairmont in Philadelphia, and a very wide and imposing main street. The state and city officials live in the park and the Irish children live in the street. The city has a 200 year old bank, a 300 year old college, an 800 year old church and several 1,000 year old towers, the latter being still in an excellent state of preservation. Sackville street is lined with beautiful buildings and impresses the casual visitor with its magnificence. The Bank of Ireland, the customs house, the law courts, the lord lieutenant's palace and the poor-house are all splendid structures, but the latter is more commodious.

The principal occupations of Dublin have always been commerce and plotting. The city has made notable efforts to manufacture woolen, cotton and linen goods in the past, but the English parliaments have always managed to ruin these with import duties, which accounts for the fact that all Dublin men in America are democrats. At present the most profitable occupation in Dublin is being a relative of a New York policeman.

Dublin has produced a vast number of great men, many of whom have met violent ends. Dublin patriots who have stayed at home and have gone into politics have generally been hanged, but those who have gone to America to pursue the same occupation have not been suspended, as a rule.

Highland Forethought.

The ferry boat was well on her way when a violent storm arose and fears were entertained for her safety. The ferryman and his mate (both Highlanders) held a consultation, and after a short debate the ferryman turned to his passengers and remarked anxiously: "We'll jus' tak' your tuppences now, for we dinna ken what might come ower us."

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

THE FORGOTTEN TOPIC.

"I DON'T suppose you are ever ill," I said to a friend of mine the other day. She is the hostess of a small private boarding house, she does all the buying and cooking herself, and is busy from morning to night, and yet never too busy to smile. Furthermore, in all our long acquaintance I never heard her make a single complaint about her health. Hence my envious inquiry.

"Never ill?" she said. "Well, since you ask me point blank I'll tell you that I often am. Only I don't know I was sick about last Wednesday but I often am. That's the way I have to be ill, you know."

I recalled Wednesday and remembered that I had seen her sweeping off the front door stoop and that she had called a cheery good morning to me as I passed by, and commented upon the weather, but never a word about her health.

What a refreshingly different attitude from the readiness, nay, eagerness, to tell about his health which the average man or woman shows!

I suppose the wide circulation of scraps of medical information, the enormous vogue of various kinds of health fads, and the increasing popularity of surgical operations all have something to do with the lavish way in which we use our health, or, more frankly, our lack of it, as a subject of conversation.

I met a woman whom I know but slightly, on a trolley car the other day. In answer to my conventional "How are you?" she exclaimed, "Well, I am not very well. I came out of the hospital. It was a twenty minute trip to town. She consumed about eighteen of it in giving me an accurate account of her illness, including a detailed description of the organ removed. "It was in such a terrible condition, my dear, that I was in it for a long time. The nurse said it was the worst case she ever saw." And yet as I said before, this woman and I are scarcely more than bowing acquaintances.

Nor are such confidences the exception. On the contrary, "It is a strong and silent man who can forbear telling his diet to a sympathetic listener," says Agnes Repplier. "It is a disciplined woman of the world who never says why she is not eating grape fruit at a luncheon."

Old and young, rich and poor, cultured and ignorant, all classes alike seem enamored of some branch of this universal topic.

"There is one topic preeminently forbidden to all well bred, to all rational mortals," said Ralph Waldo Emerson, "namely, their distempers. If you have not slept, or if you have headache, sciatica, or leucorrhea or thunder stroke, I beseech you by all means to hold your peace and not pollute the morning to which all the housemaids bring serene and pleasant thoughts by corruption and groans."

If the gentle Concord philosopher was roused to speak thus warmly in the good old days when nervous prostration was unknown and the appendix had scarcely been heard of, I wonder what he would say if he lived today.

The KITCHEN CABINET

I have remarked that courtesies of a small and trivial character are the ones that strike deepest to the grateful and appreciating heart.—Henry Clay.

HOW TO USE LEFTOVERS.

The daily problem of putting before the family the bits of leftovers in some attractive and appetizing form is one which proves the housekeeper a good manager. It surely is "some artist" who can put before her family left-over food so good and tasty that they never suspect that they are demonstrating her good management.

Combination Salad.—For dinner there were two boiled potatoes, a quarter of a cup of cooked cabbage and an ear of sweet corn in the left-over class. The potatoes were cut in dainty cubes, the corn and cabbage added, a sour apple, cut fine, and a cucumber, with a slice of onion finely chopped, all mixed with a little French dressing to season until supper time, adding salt and cayenne to taste. At serving time portions were heaped on lettuce leaves, a spoonful of boiled dressing and a thin slice of tomato added for garnish.

A hostess who was entertaining a small company at luncheon used for her fruit cocktail a charming arrangement of toothsome dainties and color.

A vegetable cutter used for potato balls was used to cut the pink heart of a watermelon. Half a dozen of these small balls were heaped in a glass and a sirup of pineapple, orange and lemon juice, cooked with sugar and chilled, was poured over. Served ice cold on a dainty dolly covered plate, it was a most enjoyable beginning to the meal.

Roast Beef Sandwiches.—Cut very thin as many slices of cold roast beef as are desired. Make a cup of brown sauce and add one tablespoonful of finely minced sour pickle. Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a quarter of a teaspoon of made mustard and spread the bread with this. Dip the beef in the hot sauce and place on the bread, sprinkle with a little crushed cooked bacon before putting on the other slice. Serve on a hot platter with hot sauce.

FILM FAVORITE IN INTERESTING SERIES

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you give me recipes for the following:

(1) An expensive fruit cake?
(2) Also for popcorn candy?
(3) Can you tell me what to do the confectioners use in making sugared popcorn?—ANASTHER COOK.

Boiled Fruit Cake.—Two cups of flour, one cup raisins (pulled apart), one cup currants, one cup water, one cup lard, one cup sugar, one tablespoonful chopped citron, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful cloves, one teaspoonful soda, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, flavor with lemon extract. Put everything together in a sauce pan (except the flour, soda and flavoring extract) and bring to a boil. Let it boil five minutes, take off and mix with lukewarm silt in flour and soda. Mix well and add flavoring. Bake about one hour in moderate oven. This makes a two and one-half pound cake and you need no eggs, butter or milk.

(2) Popcorn crisp is good. Make a syrup of one pint brown sugar, one-quarter pint granulated sugar, two tablespoonfuls best molasses, one tablespoonful butter. Boil hard, stir often. When cooked hard add one tablespoonful soda (scant), stir briskly, then pour over the popped corn. You can stir the corn into chunks or make it into balls, or press into a long pan, while warm, and cut out in squares.

(3) Make a syrup of one tablespoonful butter, three tablespoonfuls water, one teacup white sugar and boil until ready to candy. Then add popcorn and stir until sugar is evenly distributed. Take kettle from fire and stir until it has cooled. Every grain of popcorn will be separate.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it right for me, a girl of seventeen, to have a young man of twenty-two call on me steady and take me to theaters when I know he has another girl out of town, she knowing it and jealous of me?

How would you feel if you were in the other girl's shoes, my dear? Besides, it is wise to trust a man who tries to go steadily with two girls? Of course, if he is not engaged to the other girl, he is not perfect liberty to go with any other girl. At the same time, it's best to beware of a man who tries to have two girls at once.

(1) Even if you were engaged to go to go occasionally with the first of the young man it would do no harm to go out occasionally with other men provided he did not object and the other men understood the situation. It does not believe in a girl confining her company strictly to one man, especially if they are not formally engaged. Too many men monopolize a girl without serious intentions on the man's part, and then turn the girl down when all her other men friends have been scared off. You can be loyal to your friend who is away at school and at the same time enjoy yourself to a reasonable extent. He is probably having just as good a time with other girls at school.

(2) Alcohol is said to be a cure for dandruff. Rub a little of it into the scalp every day. See that all your combs and brushes are kept scrupulously clean.

Household Hints.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
If pepper is mixed with salt in the proportions of one part of pepper to three of salt, it will be found that the salt flows freely in both hot and damp weather. The mixture is useful, not only on the table, but also it is a timesaver in cooking.

To make butter spread easily, beat it to a cream instead of warming it. This way gives it a better flavor and prevents waste.

To keep moths out of your closets and chests without giving the clothes an unpleasant odor sprinkle oil of cedar freely inside on the wood in the corners. Be careful that it does not touch the clothing or it may leave a stain.

Potato Soup.—Three potatoes, one quart of milk, two slices of onions, three tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of celery salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, few grains of cayenne, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Cook the potatoes in boiling water, when soft, rub through a strainer. Scald the milk with the onion, remove onion, and add milk slowly to potatoes. Melt half the butter, add fry ingredients, stir until well mixed, then stir into boiling soup, cook one minute, strain, add the remaining butter, and sprinkle with parsley.

Hot Potato Salad.—Put into a frying-pan one-fourth of a pound of brown cut into dice, when light brown take out and saute in the fat a small onion cut fine. Add one-half as much vinegar as fat, a few grains of salt and cayenne and one-half as much hot stock as vinegar. Have ready the potatoes boiled in skins. Remove the skins and slice the hot into the frying pan enough to take up the liquid. Add the diced bacon, toss together and serve.

Raisin Filling.—One cupful of granulated sugar and one-fourth cupful of water. Boil together without stirring until it is brittle when dropped in cold water. Stir quickly into the beaten white of one egg. Add to this one small cup of stoned raisins chopped very finely.

Molasses Gingerbread.—One cupful of New Orleans molasses, one cupful of vinegar, one cupful of cream, one cupful of butter, three eggs, three cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon, ginger and baking-soda, the last dissolved in a little hot water. Bake in two loaves in a moderate oven.

Curried Tomatoes.—Put into a frying-pan a heaping tablespoonful of butter and half an onion, grated, cook until the latter begins to brown, about two minutes, and stir in a scant teaspoonful of curry powder. In this fry thick slices of tomato until tender. Sprinkle with salt and serve.

Moose Pie.—Mix well together one cupful of raisins, chopped fine, one-half cupful of chopped currants, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of vinegar, two-thirds of a cupful of molasses, ginger and baking-soda, the last dissolved in a little hot water. Bake in two loaves in a moderate oven.

Bread-Crumbs.—Put into a frying-pan a heaping tablespoonful of butter and half an onion, grated, cook until the latter begins to brown, about two minutes, and stir in a scant teaspoonful of curry powder. In this fry thick slices of tomato until tender. Sprinkle with salt and serve.

Bread-Crumbs.—Put into a frying-pan a heaping tablespoonful of butter and half an onion, grated, cook until the latter begins to brown, about two minutes, and stir in a scant teaspoonful of curry powder. In this fry thick slices of tomato until tender. Sprinkle with salt and serve.

USING THE NEW CHAFING DISH

Thousands of chafing dishes have been received by young and old as Christmas gifts. They have been given to men or women, boys or girls, housekeepers in a home, so-called light housekeepers in a few rooms, or the young man or woman in a single room at college.

Denatured alcohol is used in a lamp for the heat or electrical dishes are now becoming very common.

This article is really for the beginner in the use of this cooking appliance as many have said to me, "I have a chafing dish but I have been afraid to try to use it."

There are few things cooked over a flame or on top of the stove which cannot be cooked in a chafing dish.

The greatest help is in having everything in readiness for the work. See that the lamp is filled with denatured alcohol. This can be purchased by the quart or gallon, which is about 60 cents, and should be kept in a cool place. It is an inexpensive fuel, if used properly, as the burner is turned low much of the time after the first cooking and the food placed over the hot water pan to cook slowly or be kept hot.

The chafing dish serves its purpose perfectly at the breakfast table, luncheon, supper parties, or Sunday night suppers. The table should be laid for the meal, and the chafing dish on a tray and all materials in use in it conveniently arranged on either side. This is placed at the service of the one who is to do the cooking.

All liquids such as cream, milk, stock, tomatoes, etc., should be in small pitchers. I am constantly on the look-out for tiny ones to hold lemon juice, catsup, Worcestershire sauce and other seasonings. These should all be measured with just the required amount to be used. Butter is melted in balls measuring one tablespoonful. With a wooden chafing dish spoon for stirring and all the materials in readiness, chafing dish cookery is most successful. Try simple and easy things first.

Have you an electric toaster? If you have some one can be making toast while another does the cooking and everything will be served hot for either first or second helping. Learn to do all gracefully, and easily and with the sociability.

Cracked Oysters.
Material—Oysters, one pint; butter, two tablespoonfuls; flour, one tablespoonful; milk, one cup; cream, one cup; celery salt, one-half teaspoonful; salt, one-half teaspoonful; paprika, toast or biscuit.

Directions.—Arrange all the material as described convenient to the chafing dish. When all is in readiness put half the butter into the blazer, and when heated and melted add the flour, rub well together until smooth and gradually add milk and cream, stirring all the time until it begins to thicken. Set the blazer into the hot water pan and add the oysters and seasonings. When ready to serve add the remaining butter and dip over hot toast or thin, crusty baking powder biscuit.

Tomato Rarebit.
Material—Soft American cheese, one pound; strained tomato, one cup; soft white bread crumbs, one cup; butter, one tablespoonful; salt, one teaspoonful; kitchen bouquet, one-half teaspoonful; paprika, clove of garlic.

Directions.—Grate the cheese, or cut it fine and mix all the ingredients with it in a bowl. Rub the chafing dish with the garlic, and if well liked cut it very fine and leave it in the pan. Turn in the mixture from the bowl and stir rapidly until hot and smooth. Serve at once on hot toast or thin baking powder biscuit, accompanied with cucumber and lettuce salad with French dressing.

WELLESLEY'S PRETTIEST GIRL DECRIES SLIT SKIRTS, SUFFRAGETS AND TANGO

Miss Maude O. Minehan.

Miss Maude O. Minehan, who has just won the Wellesley college beauty contest, does not believe in slit skirts, suffragets, the tango, the turkey trot or "chocolate munching matinee girls."

"The girls in New York seem to have gone crazy," says Miss Minehan. "We do not tango or turkey trot at Wellesley. What's the sense in waddling around in a turkey trot when you can enjoy a waltz? I don't like the slit skirt because it is ugly."

PRESIDES OVER THE DESTINIES OF TOYS IN PATENT OFFICE

Miss Alice Purington.

Miss Alice Purington passes upon the patentability of children's toys in the patent office at Washington. Every new toy must come to her, and if she deems it is impractical or dangerous the applicant is refused. Models and drawings of all kinds come to her, and her desk is always loaded with new ideas for the instruction and amusement of the thousands of children of this country.

First Use of Tobacco.
The cigar has a long history. Tobacco may have been used in cigar form before it was burned in pipes, snuffed as snuff or taken as a "quid," but on this point there is no proof. Two of the sailors under Columbus on the first voyage reported that they had seen natives of the new-found world with firebrands in their mouths and with smoke issuing from their lips.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People
BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

So many of us who are not prosperous lay the fault to "luck." Alex O'Reil says luck means rising at six o'clock in the morning, living on a dollar a day if you earn two, minding your own business and not meddling with other people's and trusting in God and your own resources. To have, one must strive, and the stronger the barrier that obstructs our path, the more should we determine to sweep it aside and go on.

One of the laws of nature is that you cannot stand still and you do not go forward you will be forced back. Few of us want to go back, yet many of us hate to make the effort to keep going forward.

It isn't what we say we're going to do that counts, it's what we do. For by our actions we daily demonstrate just what we really are. What we want, and what we are going to get. "As a man sows, so shall he reap."

We cannot expect to live an improvident life and be immune from want and care in our old age. The way the majority of us recklessly spend as we go it would seem as if we were going to skip the old age period, our earning capacity will never be diminished.

It's a splendid thing to say that if we live to be ninety, we will be young. The person who carries the heart of a child in their bosom is the one who is going to succeed, for their enthusiasm and faith in their ability is strong and one of the essential requisites of success is faith in one's self.

To be able to earn is good, to be able to save is better. There is not one of us who is a wage earner that had not ought to be the possessor of a bank book or some such aid to saving.

Pride Sets the Pace.

We are a great people because we make such a hullabaloo about the things to do; because we accomplish them to the music of the band. Our pride has set the pace, and it's our pride that keeps us up till we drop.

WITHIN THE LAW

"I've got her!" he cried. He went to the desk where the telephone was and took up the receiver.

"Give me 3100 Spring," he said. As he waited for the connection he smiled widely on the astonished Gilder.

"Headquarters?" he called. "Inspector Burke speaking. Who's in my office? I want him quick." He smiled as he listened, and he spoke again to Gilder. "It's Smith, the best man I have. That's luck, if you ask me. Then again he spoke into the mouthpiece of the telephone.

"Oh, Ed, send some one up to that Turner woman. You have the address. Just see that she is tipped off that Joe Garson and some pals are going to break into Edward Gilder's house to night. Get some stool pigeon to hand her the information. You'd better get to work quick. Understand?"

The inspector hung up the receiver and faced his host with a contented smile.

"What good will all that do?" Gilder demanded impatiently.

"She'll come to stop 'em. When we get the rest of the gang we'll grab her too. Just call your man for a minute. Will you, Mr. Gilder?"

Gilder pressed the electric button on his desk. At the same moment, through the octagonal window, came a blinding flash of light that rested for seconds, then vanished. Burke was startled by the mysterious radiance.

"What's that?" he demanded sharply.

"It's the flashlight from the Metropolitan tower," Gilder explained. "It swings around this way about every fifteen minutes. The servant forgot to draw the curtains."

CHAPTER XIII.

The Burglary at Gilder's.

THE entrance of the butler brought the inspector's thoughts back to the matter in hand.

"My man," he said authoritatively. "I want you to go up to the roof and open the scuttle. You'll find some men waiting up there. Bring 'em down here. They're police officers. You get 'em down here, and then you go to bed and stay there till morning. Understand?"

The butler looked at his master for guidance. Receiving a nod, he said: "Very well, sir."

"How do you know they're going to break into the house tonight?" Gilder demanded of Burke. "or do you only think they're going to break into the house?"

"I know they are. I fixed it."

"You did?"

"Sure; did it through a stool pigeon."

"Oh, an informer?" Gilder interrupted, a little doubtfully.

"Yes," Burke agreed; "stool pigeon is the police name for him. Really, he's the vilest thing that crawls."

"But if you think that," Gilder expostulated, "why do you have anything to do with that sort of person?"

"Because it's good business," the inspector replied. "We know he's a spy and a traitor and that every time he comes near us we ought to use a disinfectant. But we deal with him just the same because we have to. Now, the stool pigeon in this trick is a swell English crook. He went to Garson yesterday with a scheme to rob your house. He tried out Mary Turner, too, but she told Garson to leave it alone. But he met Griggs afterward and agreed to pull it off. Griggs got word to me that it's coming off tonight, and so, you see, Mr. Gilder, that's how I know."

"I see," Gilder admitted without any enthusiasm. "But why do you have your men come down over the roof?"

"It wasn't safe to bring them in the front way. It's a cinch the house is being watched. I wish you would let me have your latch key. I want to come back and make this collar myself."

"But why not stay, now that you are here?"

"Suppose some of them saw me come in? There wouldn't be anything doing until after they saw me go out again."

The hall door opened, and the butler re-entered the room. Behind him came Cassidy and two other detectives in plain clothes. At a word from his master the disturbed Thomas withdrew.

"Now," Burke went on briskly as the door closed behind the servant, "where could these men stay out of sight until they're needed?"

There followed a little discussion which ended in the selection of a storeroom at the end of the passage on the ground floor.

"And now, Mr. Gilder," the inspector said energetically, "I'm going to give you the same tip I gave your man. Go to bed and stay there."

"But the boy," Gilder protested. "What about him? He's the one thing of importance to me."

"If he says anything more about going to Chicago just you let him go, that's all! It's the best place for him for the next few days."

"You're in charge here," Burke said to Cassidy, "and I hold you responsible. I'm coming back to get this bunch myself, and I'll call you when you're wanted. You'll wait in the storeroom out there and don't make a move till you hear from me, unless by any chance things go wrong and you get a call from Griggs. He's got a whistle, and he'll use it if necessary. Got that straight?" Cassidy declared an entire understanding of the directions.

As the men left the room Burke turned again to Gilder.

"Just one thing more," he said. "After I've gone I want you to stay up for a half hour anyhow, with the lights burning. Do you see? I want to be sure to give the Turner woman time to get here while that gang is at work."

Gilder scrupulously followed the directions of the police inspector. Unhappily he had remained in the library until the allotted time was elapsed. He edged from place to place, his mind heavy with distress under the shadow that threatened to blight the life of his cherished son. Finally, with a sense of relief he put out the lights and went to his chamber.

His thoughts were most with his son, and ever as he thought of Dick his fury waxed against the woman who had enmeshed the boy in her plotting she broke off, a hot flush blazing in her cheeks.

Mary Turner was just ready for bed when a note came by a messenger who waited for no answer, as he told the yawning maid. As Mary read the roughly scribbled message, she was caught in the grip of terror. The man who had saved her from death had yielded to temptation. As he had saved her so she must save him. She hurried into the gown she had just put off. Then she went to the telephone book and searched for the number of Gilder's house.

A few moments before Mary Turner received the note from the hands of the sleepy maid one of the leaves of the octagonal window in the library of Richard Gilder's town house swung open under the persuasive influence of a thin rod of steel, cunningly used, and Joe Garson stepped confidently into the dark room.

For a space he rested motionless, listening intently. Reassured, he drew out an electric torch and set it glowing. A little disk of light touched here and there about the room, traveling very swiftly and in methodical circles. Satisfied by the survey, Garson crossed to the hall door, where he listened for any sound of life without and found none. The door into the passage that led to the storeroom where the detectives waited next engaged his businesslike attention. And here again there was naught to provoke his suspicion.

It seemed to him that everything was in readiness for the coming of his associates. There remained only to give them the signal in the room around the corner where they waited at a telephone. He seated himself in Gilder's chair at the desk and drew the telephone to him.

"Give me 900 Bryant," he said. There was a little wait. Then an answer in a voice he knew came over the wire.

Garson picked up a penholder from the desk and began tapping lightly on the rim of the transmitter. It was a code message in Morse. In the room around the corner the tapping sounded clearly, ticking out the message that the way was free for the thieves' coming.

For a final safeguard Garson searched for and found the telephone bell box and unscrewed the bells, which he placed on the desk. He then took his pistol from his hip pocket and thrust it into the right side pocket of his coat. Once again, now, he produced the electric torch and lighted it as he extinguished the lamp on the table.

He then went to the door into the hall, opened it and, leaving it ajar, made his way in silence to the outer doorway. The doors there were freed of their bolts, and one of them swung wide. So nicely had the affair been timed that hardly was the door open before the three men slipped in and stood mute and motionless in the hall while Garson refastened the doors. Then Garson walked quickly back to the library. Behind him, with steps as noiseless as his own, came the three men.

When all were gathered in the library Garson shut the hall door, touched the button in the wall beside it, and the chandelier threw its radiant light on the group.

Griggs was in evening clothes, seeming a very elegant young gentleman indeed, but his two companions were of grosser type as far as appearances went—one, Dacey, thin and wiry, with a ferret face; the other, Chicago Red, a brawny ruffian, whose stolid features nevertheless exhibited something of half sullen good nature.

"Everything all right so far," Garson said rapidly. He turned to Griggs and pointed toward the heavy hangings that shrouded the octagonal window. "Are those the things we want?" he demanded.

Origin of Common Word.

"Won't" is a contraction of "wot not," and the only form in which "wot" for "will" still survives. Shakespeare, however, could make Hamlet say: "Wot't drink up esil, eat a crocodile?"—and most of the contemporary audience must have known that "wot" represented "wot."

CLASSIFIED WANT AD?

Are you starting up a little business of your own? I say a little business, meaning that you are starting on a small scale, hoping by worthy, persistent effort to work into something larger.
If so—do you advertise? Do you each and every day keep hammering home to the mind of the buying public the fact that you are located at such a street, at such a number; and that you are dealing in a certain line of goods?
If you are not doing this, you may as well close up shop—the sooner the better, for your pocketbook's sake.
In this day you cannot hope to keep abreast of the crowd if you do not advertise; persistently, conscientiously. If your capital be small, let your advertising be likewise; but keep at it. Keep at it if you want to create a demand for your goods, a steady market, and a reputation for being on the business map of the community.
It does not take the stupendous sum that many people seem to think necessary, to insert and keep running, in your home paper a modest little notice of your very own. Of this rest assured, if you fail to; wonder not why the people pass you by unnoticed; unseen.
Pass you by for the merchant who tells the people where he is.
Get in the public eye! Keep in the public eye! Advertise.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Dec. 30, 1913.—Knowing What To Do: There might have been a disastrous fire on Fourth street on Saturday but for the heroism displayed by a young man, Sweetman. He was passing on a lamp along when he saw flames creeping around the chimney and he dashed into the house and shouted "fire" until the house rang. He seized a bureau and threw it over, he called to one of the family to send in the alarm. The bureau was left lying on the floor, and Sweetman gathered up a table and ran into the yard. He sent a small boy to sound another alarm and ran in and began rucking the bedstead to pieces, and at the same time ordered the woman to throw everything out of doors. He set the bedstead down and rushed the third boy to sound another alarm, and then went in and carefully brought out the woodbox and floor mat. The woman was meanwhile shoving the family furniture in the parlor and as soon as Sweetman had flung a looking glass through a back window and had torn a baby's crib to pieces and then sent another boy to jerk an alarm box two blocks down the street on a lamp post. While Sweetman was doing all this another man climbed up on the roof with a pail of water and three or four men came up in time to prevent Sweetman from throwing a piano downstairs to give himself room to work.

The charity ball given by the St. George Society on Christmas night was largely attended and the receipts will be given over to help the poor in places, and at the same time order Adam Wilson of Janesville, has purchased for the two states of Wisconsin and Iowa, a right for the manufacture of a J. Mill's sulky corn cultivator. The machine is a new country invention. It was introduced last year and was a success. It has many improvements and will meet with a large demand.

IF A STORK CAN'T SWALLOW A FISH, DO YOU THINK A PELICAN? OR IF THE WATER DIDN'T RUN WOULD YOU FAUCET?

Ten years ago today, nearly 600 lives were lost in the Troquois theatre fire in Chicago—December 30, 1903. Where is fireman?

THE NERVE OF SOME PEOPLE! THAT NEW NEIGHBOR WOMAN IS RUBBERING OVER HERE THE VERY FIRST THING!—HOW COMMON!

SUCH IS LIFE.
